

Why we exist

People with intellectual disabilities (PWID) have poorer health and lower access to and use of healthcare services than the general population. IDHealth was set up to provide healthcare for this population and empower Singapore's existing health ecosystem to serve PWID better.

Who we serve

Adults (≥ 18 years old) with an intellectual disability who have health conditions that require intervention may be enrolled into our programme.

Our Service

Clinic

The IDHealth clinic is open 5 days a week. Patients are seen by appointment only.

Home visits

Following an initial in-clinic assessment, and when deemed necessary, IDHealth team members may perform home visits to address various health concerns.

Professional support

We provide training and support for service providers in health and social service sectors.

About Us

The IDHealth team is committed to meeting the healthcare needs of adults with intellectual disability and their caregivers. Taking a family-centred and integrated approach to care, our multidisciplinary team works closely with multiple health and social service providers to achieve this aim.
